Report Confirmed That the Russians Have Asked Peace

SHOWS UP PLOT OF POLITICAL LEADERS'

THIS PICTURE, LINCOLN SAID, MADE HIM PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES

Abraham Lincoln used to call the above photograph "The Picture That Made Me President." It is one of the less familiar portraits of the martyr president and was taken in 1860. Lincoln had at that time been a national figure for two years, thanks to the reputation the Lincoln-Douglass debates had given him. After his famous Cooper Institute speech in February, 1860, he sat for this photo at Brady's studio. It shows the Lincoln that Illinois knew best. It was used extensively in the campaign which resulted the his election.

Germany is Massing Troops On the Western Front Preparatory to Making Big Smash. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Announcement of America's purpose to emancipate the world from the threatened and attempted mas-tery of selfish groups of autocratic rulers by President Wilson comes at almost the same time that the Geraimost the same time that the German emperor, exalting over the collapse of opposition on the eastern front exclaimed that peace will come but the victory of the German arms must first be recognized.

Direct Answer.

In reiterating the intention of the American people to continue the war until a new international order devoid of government by intrigue and force, is realized, the president answered the statement made recently by Chancellor Von Hertiling for Germany and Foreign Minister Czernin for Austria-Hungary. A proposal to end hostilities only on German terms is seen in Von Hertiling's utterance, while Count Czernin, the president said, spoke in a friendly tone, seeing the basis of the elements of peace with clear eyes. Direct Answer.

Glorifies Might. Glorifies Might.

The German emperor's reply to congratulations on the peace agreement with Ukrain glorified the policy of might. Germany, he says, shall seek in every way to bring peace to the world and those who refuse the German terms "must be forced to have peace," while acknowledging the power of the German sword.

Mass Troops. Mass Troops.

INCOME BLANKS TO

Delay Has Been Caused by the Failure of the Department at Wash-ington to Forward the ington to Forward the Forms.

Due to the delay in receiving the corporation and excess profits blanks at the office of Burt Williams, state collector, in Madison, from the department at Washington and to answer the many inquiries which have been pouring into his office asking the reason for the delay in the sending of the blanks, a statement has been issued by the state collector to make clear the cause for the delay. Hundreds of people have written to the state collector, but as it is an impossibility to answer the letters individually, he has asked the newspapers to give the facts.

The statement is as follows:
"Thore has been an unavoidable delay in the printing of forms for use of corporations in making annual return of net income to this office (form 1031), and also the forms for use of corporations, co-partnerships, and individuals in reporting excess profits for taxation (form 1101).

"From advices received from the commissioner of internal revenue, it is expected that a supply of these forms will reach this office in the course of the next wook or ten days. Envelopes have been addressed for every corporation in the district and as soon as received forms 1031 and 1101 will be mailed.

"In case inquiry is made of you regarding failure to receive either of these forms, I would appreciate your giving out this information and thus prevent inquiries being addressed to this office on this subject, as it is impossible to answer such letters owing to congestion in this office.

"As this office has no mailing list of individuals and co-partnerships required to report under the excess profits provision of the income tax law, such parties should make request for form 1101, and as soon as received they will be mailed.

PIONEER OF COUNTY TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Joseph Gibbs, Resident of Town of Porter for 68 Years, Commits Suicide Early This Morning Because of III

Health.

Evansville, Feb. 12.—Joseph Gibbs, ago 75, was found dead in his room this morning at the C. C. Hoague home in the town of Porter, east of Evansville with a bullet wound in his head, a suicide. Despondency over his ill health is given as the cause of his taking his own life. The tragedy occurred some time between three o'clock and six o'clock this morning. The deceased for many years lived on his farm near what is known as Gibbs' lake, but when his sister passed away a few years ago he made his home with his niece. Mrs. C. C. Hoague. He settled in the town of Porter when only seven years of age and has always made his home in this county. He was prominent throughout his township and his many friends will regret to hear of his taking his own life.

Mr. Gibbs never married. He is survived only by distant relatives. Funeral services will be announced after Frank D. Ryan, county coroner, has completed the Inquest.

affect speculation is evinced at the rumor emanating from Washington, D. C., regarding the lifting of the coalless Monday order. That this will probably be done is seen by the many roba probably be done is seen by the many freight trains which are now going and coming on the railroads. This rushing of freight trains is due to the thaw which is now opening all tracks. Fractically all of the passenger trains of the local lines are late and this is due to the fact that priority is given to all freight trains which are delayed to let the freight pass. All schedules on the railroads are jumbled and no exact time is set for the arriving of passenger trains. Should the thaw continue for several days, all freight congestion in the country will be releved according to th statements of the railroad men.

A very successful sale of the Smileage books in the city on Saturday was reported by the chairman of the store committee. Miss Agnes Webber. The following young ladies assisted in the sale, being stationed in the dry goods stores and banks: Louise Ford, Helen Green, Harriette Griffen, Katherine Finley, Eleanor Hemming, Katherine Olsen, Edna Ward, and Margaret Delaney. EXHIBIT OF THE ART LEAGUE HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The pottery exhibit of the Art Lengue scheduled for Feb. 19th has been postponed to a later date on account of congestion of freight in the railway service. The bulk of the exhibit was to come from a loan collective prepared by the National Association of Women's clubs, and this the committee was unable to quarantee as arriving at any special date so it was deemed wise to postpone plans until scitled railroad conditions.

Edgerton, Feb. 12.—The 33rd annual Firoman's ball given last evening under the auspices of the local firemen was well attended and a most enjoyable time was had by all who attend. The Hatch Orchestra of Janesville furnished the music in a pleasing manner. The orchestra was to give an hour's concert but as the train was over an hour late a shorter concert was given. Two hundred and eighty-five tickets were sold for the dance besides the extra lady tickets and the proceeds of the dance materially swelled the treasury of the firemen's fund.

Bromidrosis is often associated with excessive perspiration, but occurs independently as well. Like the latter, it may be general or local. Members of the African race and of some other races naturally have general bromidness.

The sweat has a peculiar or characteristic odor in various diseases, like typhoid fever, septicemia, chronic alpendies.

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Denver, Feb. 12.—Unlimited possibilities for furnishing alibis is predicted for the invention of a young Japanese here, who has received word from Washington that a patent has been awarded on his device to enable persons to take their own pictures. George W. Nishiyami, twenty-five years old and unmarried, is the inventor. He says his creation is a ventor. He says his creation is a small cylinder that can be attached to any camera and works automatically, allowing anyone to take their own picture in any pose. A feature of the device is a small bell that gives warning several seconds before the mechanism operates, thus affording sufficient time for the "victim to look his prettiest."

Ing shampoo that we can recommend to our readers is one that brings out table the natural beauty of the hair sail the natural beauty of the hair and may be enjoyed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of Canthrox, which can be obtained from any druggist, in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just to the top of the head. This when rubband in the scalp and onto every strand of hair, chemically dissolves all impurities. It is very soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to both scalp and hair. Paris, Feb. 12.—The cause of women's suffrage has scored a decided victory in France.

At a recent meeting of the Women's Union for Universal Suffrage, presided over by Madame de Witteschumberger, who is the Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of France, Deputy Flandin of l'Yonne, the intermediary appointed by the Chamber of Commerce of Deputies to discuss the matter with the suffragettes, told them that parliament was inclined to grant them the privilege of the vote.

The suffrage will not yet take the form of complete equal rights, however, in the eyes of the deputies, it being better to advance the woman's cause by steps in order to avoid any social conflict between their league and organized labor.

Because of the fact that the women will be in the majority after the war, the chamber fears any radical reforms might provoke disturbances that could not but be distressing.

The first recognition of the other sex will close by extending the right to vote in municipal affairs to all yho have passed their thirty-first birthday. Then the eligibility of the suffragettes to hold municipal office will be discussed. Deputy Flandin is confident that their rights on this point will be recognized. Thus, by degrees, the country will be led up to the question of full and equal suffrage.

In the opinion of Prof. Berthelemy, head of the Faculty for Equal Rights of Parls, complete suffrage will go along way toward banishing alcoholism and settling other minor difficulties.

I was telling Miss Cook about it,—she was another one of the girls in our class.—and she said. That's just what I did. That's the way she always is. the law and the state board of health announces it will be glad to investigate such cases.

Since the test was started, a few physicians and some midwives have been discovered who have not reported any births whatever for the year 1917. It will be necessary to bring a prosecution in every one of these cases. In the future, if Wisconsin is admitted to the birth registration area, the state bureau of vital statistics will be required to collect practically complete reports of all births occurring in the state each month, and with the facilities for checking births now at hand, any failure to report will be quickly discovered. For the first offense the physician or midwife will be required to sign an agreement that in the future all births attended by them will be reported promptly; for the second offense a prosecution will be brought in every lease.

THE LOBBYISTS.

What a commotion there must have been among many persuasive and elo-quent gentiemen, who draw fat checks from the railroads for political influ-ence of lobby work in Congress and the state legislature. Some men will have lost their principal source of fa-come, now, that this class of service has been out off. The ante rooms of legislative assemblies will seem quite cold and lonely without their genial presence.

Formerly, legislative agents were apt to be aggressive, verbose and windy, and rather a coarse type as a whole. Now they have the refinement of the artist. ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Lincoln's birthday should remind us of the great principles for which this war is being fought—principles which he, more than any other one man, established as the meaning of American Democracy. First, there is the liberty of the individual to choose for himself his own career, to act without political dictation from the State. Second, there is the principle of equality in all civil and legal affairs. Both are utterly antagonistic to the class system and the bureaucratic govern ment of present Germany.

It is not so much for the freeing of the slaves that Lincoln stands as for the greater constitutional principles upon the basis of which will be decided the issues of the war. His greatest argument against slavery pointed out that slavery was undemo-cratic, and therefore inconsistent with American institutions. That argument won where the moral, and the eco-nomic and the political had failed.

The things that are going to be wanted at some future time should all be thought out in advance to their smallest detail, and arrangements made to have supplies and material ready when the need appears. In that way, after the confusion of the first start has passed the great war first start has passed, the great war machine would move along smoothly.

IF LINCOLN'S SHADE SHOULD PAY US A VISIT TODAY.

Just a Line or Two. To the Editor: No doubt the readers of the Gazette have noticed several articles regarding the town of Rock, and to make things clear, in behalf of myself and family, I beg for space to give a little explanation. No doubt the readers have noticed that a statement had been made that liquor had been sold to soldiers in the town of Rock: For my part I can truthfully say I have never violated the law nor have I seen it violated in that way. Furthermore I would not sell to any person that was intoxicated or to any person that was intoxicated or to any person that was neglecting his family through the abuse of liquor. I have been in business nearly three years without police protection and I have the first time to have any commotion of any sort, and when we are infested with those we term pests, we give them the remedy and get rid of them. We have a town board picked by the people of the township and it is our aim to select the best men we can to fill the position, and from my way of thinking we have made a very good selection. I have but the kindest praise for the men that are serving on our board. As for my pert I have never had any grievance with them through any fault of mine or theirs. I think I made a statement once before that my place is open for inspection at any time day or night and any time I violate the law I know whether I am guilty or not and if so I will take my medicine. It is a poor individual that does not have respect for decency. A man can conduct a place where liquor is sold and handle it as clean as any other line of business, and if he is not capable he should be put out of business. And the little profits wemaks, I am willing to do my bit to help the great cause we are fighting for, and I want to feel that I am a true American and do business on American principles, honest, upright and fair dealing with all men, and he that smitch his brother shall be condemned and all men shall say Amen. SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY

Although Order Will Be Suspended at Midnight Thursday, Schools Will Not Be Responed Until Monday Morning.

After nine days of closing of amusement places and schools of the city, the coal situation is so greatly improved that it has been decided by the county fuel administrator to lift the ban Thursday at midnight. With the approval of Mayor Fathers and S. M. Smith, president of the school board, Jesse Earle this morning signal the order which will allow the theatres, club rooms and dance halls to be board, Jesse Early cans allow the theatres, club rooms and dance halls to be open as usual beginning Friday. It has been decided not to reopen the public schools until the following Monday in view of the fact that it would not be economical to heat the buildings only to be used one day this week.

The order signed by Mr. Earle, follows:

Shorten Business Hours.

With the advent of warmer weather and a freer movement of coal, it is hoped that no more closing will be necessary, however if it should be necessary, however if it should be necessary stores and husiness houses will be asked to voluntarily shorten their hours each day. This will not materially decrease the volume of business and would be a more fair distribution of the burdens of necessary coal saving.

Continue to Conserve.

"It will still be necessary, however, to conserve coal in every way possible for the balance of the winter, as we are supposed to be allowed only the tonnage consumed last year, and that has nearly been reached. It is also true that on account of the severity of the winter people who put in their usual amount of coal are now nearly out and will have to be taken care of also.

tity of the winter people who put in their usual amount of coal are now nearly out and will have to be taken care of also.

Strike Rumors.

"There have been two or three idle general good I deem it best to spike at this time.— I realize that no one current attempted to do a public or patriotic work without incurring criticism, and usually from people who should know better.

"The first rumor was that I had a celiar full of roal obtained of course by virtue of my being Fuel Administrator, and was started by the idle wagging of a neighbor's tongue at a ladies' club meeting held in the third ward a few weeks ao. The fact is 1 ordered ten tons of coal last summer as I always do; four tons had been put in before October 1st(and when I had the office of Fuel Administrator wished onto me I cancelled the balance of the order, in order to avoid just that kind of criticism and have been taking my chances with the rest are contained. Seized No Cars.

"The rumor of my seizing four cars of coal belonging to a local dealer and sending it to Beloit was a pure fabrication. We have not interfered with a single pound of coal in Janesville, either by sending it elsewhere or by diverting it to any one else than the original consignee.

Small Pox Not Reason.

"There is also a general rumor current that the local closing order was made on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the small pox as much as on account of the shortage of coal. This is absolutely untrue as

Small Pox Not Reason.

"There is also a general rumor current that the local closing order was made on account of the small pox as much as on account of the shortage of coal. This is absolutely untrue as that is a matter entirely within the jurisdiction of the local and state health officers. The closing order was made purely on account of a dangerous shortage of coal at that time, and if the weather had not moderated just when it did and coal arrived just as it did, there would have been no question as to why the closing order was made.

WILL PLACE BAN ON FREAK DELIVERIES

New York, Feb. 12.—The spitball, the emery ball, the rosin ball, and all the freak deliveries big league pitchers bave thrown into the baseball rules in the last decade will be prisoners at the bar when the board of directors of the National league goes into session here today.

Following the lead of Gov. John K. Tener, presiden of the National league and other leaders in the national pastime, Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg, chief agitator of the oldest major circuit, will be here with his grip packed full of dope on a suggestion to shoot the malefactors at survise. He has gained the support of a number of indicential men, and, in view of the fact that the American Association, one of the most powerful of minor leagues, already has cast freak deliverles among the discards, the prisoners may be forced to walk the plank.

freak deliveries among the distants the prisoners may be forced to walk the plank.

I sually drastic reforms bearing on rules of the game have to be looked over and viewed with suspicion from every conceivable angle before the powers of baseball decide to do anythiag. The attack on freak deliveries during the winter, however, has been so strong that more than usual incentive for a complete separation is present. Gov. Tener is so strongly opposed to the spitball that his influence, thrown into the lists, is certain to have a decided effect. Gov. Tener is one man in the National league who generally gets what he goes after. If he should decide today that he wants the scalp of the spitball, emery ball and its various cousins and other near relations, why the deliveries are quite likely to be scalpiess.

Gov. Tener's objection to the delivand other near relations, why the deliveries are quite likely to be scale less.

Gov. Tener's objection to the deliveries is based mainly on the fact that they are not hygienic, that they are disgusting and unnecessary. Often the National league president has expressed his displeasure toward spitial in rather strong terms. He has declared it to be his belief that the average fan doesn't care a continental whoop about a star pitcher first spit on a baseball, then throw the hals to watch that pitcher first spit on a baseball, then throw if up to the batter, with the catcher ready to catch the sally a covered spiner. The fielder, too, gets his if the ball's hit, and if he doesn't watch his step, he is likely to throw the ball over the grandstand when his flugers come in contact with the wet spot on the ball. At the same time the major leaguers are quarreling about spital and other such matters the international league either will be passing in its checks or getting ready to put over a wobbly league to open the next season.

Ed. C. Barrow has turned his resignation as president of the major of the Toronto club, is a candidate for the office.

According to her bill of complaint, trouble has been frequent in Bushmanor, the family home, for months past. At present she alleges that her husband is interested in a member of his company, and has neglected her because of this. Some time ago, the couple agreed to disagree. At this time, Bushman agreed to give his wife $100 a week, in addition to defraying her expenses. Now, she claims, he is more than $1,000 in arrears on his payments. During the last year, it develops, Mrs. Bushman made frequent complaints to the justice of the peace at Towson, charging brutal conduct on the part of her husband. She asks that she be given the custody of their five children, and that with them, she beallowed to make her home at the family residence.

No co-respondent is needed, but the wife claims Bushman occupied an apartment in New York with a certain woman of his company, and that recently he brought this woman to their home and entertained her. She asks that he be restrained from this practice in the future.

The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a termarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose. The cough symps are combinations of pine and symp. The "symp" part is usually plain granulated sugar symp. Nothing better, but why buy it? You can loasily make it yourself in five miantes. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 25; ounces of Pinex (60 cents worth) in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar symp. This gives you a full plat—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and very pleasant—whildren take it eagerly. You can feel this take hold of a cough for cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phicm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendic, too, for bronchial asthma, hearseness, or any ordinary throat allment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt results.

"There is a higher duty than happiness," he said. "There are greater things than love. And one day you will know this."

When she went in Hedwig had gone, and the old king, lying in his bed, was looking at the portrait of his dead

The following morning the Countess oschek left for a holiday. She had the choice of but two alternatives, to do as she had been commanded, for it amounted to that, or to die. The comwould not kill her, in case she failed them. It would be unnecessary. Enough that they place the letter and the code in the hands of the authorities, by some anonymous means. Well enough she knew the chancellor's inflexible anger, and the Archduchess Annunciata's cold rage. They would sween her away with a gesture, and she would die the death of all traitors. A week! Time had been when a week of the dragging days at the palace had seemed eternity. Now the hours flew. The gold clock on her dressing table, a gift from the arch-duchess, marked them with flying

During the afternoon came a package, rather unskillfully tied with a glit cord. Opening it, the countess dis closed a glove box of wood, with a design of rather shaky violets burnt into Use "Gets-it," the Great Corn Discovthe cover. Inside was a note:

I am very sorry you are sick. This is to put your gloves in when you travel. Please excuse the work. I have done it in a burry.
FERDINAND WILLIAM OTTO.

Suddenly the countess laughed, choking hysterical laughter that alarmed Minna; horrible laughter, which left her paler than ever, and gasping.

The old castle of the Loscheks looked grim and inhospitable when she reached it that night. Built during the years when the unbeliever overran southern Europe, it stood in a commanding position over a valley, and a steep, walled road led up to it. But, its ancient glory and good repute departed, its garrison gone, its drawbridge and moat things of the past, its very hangings and furnishings moldering from long neglect, it hung over the valley, a past menace, an empty threat.

To this dreary refuge the countess had fled. She wanted the stlence of its still rooms in which to think. Wretched herself, its wretchedness called her. As the carriage which had brought her from the railway turned into its woods, and she breathed the pungent odor of pine and balsam, she relaxed for the first time.

Why was she so hopeless? She could escape. She knew the woods well. None who followed her could know tham so well. She would get Drug Co., McCue & Buss.

away, and somewhere, in a new world, make a fresh start. Surely, after all, peace was the greatest thing in the wòrld.

The carriage drove on; Minna, or the box, crossed herself at sight of the church, and chatted with the driver, a great figure who crowded her to the very edge of the seat.

"I am glad to be here," she said. "I am sick of grandeur. My home is in Etzel." She turned and inspected the man beside here. "You are a newcomer, I think?"

"I have but just come to Etzel." "Then you cannot tell me about my

"After that, you return to the city?" "Yes. Madame the countess-you yould know, if you were Etzel-bornmadame the countess is lady in walting to her royal highness, the Archduchess Annunciata. "So " said the driver. But he was not curious, and the broken road de-manded his attention. He was but newly come, so very newly that he did not know his way, and once made a wrong turning.

The countess relaxed. She slept

When she had breakfasted and dressed, she went out on a balcony, and looked down at the valley. Her eyes dropped to the old wall below, where in the sunshine the caretaker was beating a rug. Close to him, in intimate and cautious conversation, was must be told, a trifle uneasily, the the driver of the night before. Glancing up, they saw her and at once separated.

Gone was peace, then. The countess knew-knew certainly. "Our eyes see everywhere." Eyes, indeed—eyes that even now the caretaker raised furtively from his rug.

Nevertheless, the countess minded to experiment, to be certain. For none is so suspicious, she knew, as one who fears suspicion. None so guilty as the guilty. During the forenoon she walked through the woods, going briskly, with vigorous, mountainbred feet. No crackle of underbrush disturbed her. Swift turnings revealed no lurking figures skulking behind the trunks of trees. But where an ancient stone bridge crossed a mountain stream, she came on the huge driver of the night before reflectively fish-

He saluted her gravely, and the countess paused and looked at him. "You have caught no fish, my friend?" she said.

Demanded.

"No, madame. But one plays about my hook."

She turned back. Eyes everywher an arms, great hairy arms. And rect that, for all their size, must step lightly!

On the second day she made a desperate resolve, and characteristically put it into execution at once. She sent for the caretaker. When he came uneasy, for the Loscheks were justly feared in the countryside, and even that for thing of which he knew gave him small courage, she lost no time in evasion.

"Go," she said, "and bring here your accomplice."

"Me he hesitated, perplexed, she give part which complete in the condition of the letter," she said of which he knew gave him small courage, she lost no time in evasion.

"Go," she said, "and bring here your accomplice."

"Ma madame. But one plays about my hook."

He was still dublous, but she wrote the letter and gave it to him, her face for Feet, Every Day prod and scornful. But she was not easy, for all that, and she watched from her balcony to see if any messenger left the castle and descended the mountain road. She was rewarded, an hour later, by seeing a figure leave the old gateway and start afoot toward the village, a pale faced man with colorless hair. A part of the hidden guard that surrounded her, she knew, and somehow familiar. But, although she racked her brains, she could not remember where she had seen him.

An old lady from the country went recently to a State street store and began examining a piece of calleo. She pulled it this way and that, held it to the light in different positions, wetted a corner and rubbed it between her fingers, trying if the colors were good. Then she paused a while, seemingly not satisfied. At last she cut off a piece with a pair of scissors she had dangling at her side, and, handing it to a tall, gawky looking girl of sixteen, standing beside her, said:

"Here, Lizzie Jane, you take an' chew that, an' see if it fades."
